BASEBALL FANS TO HAVE CHANCE TO PROVE METTLE

Called to Consider Advisability of Organizing Four Team League.

Will Meet Thursday Night at Traction Office.

MANAGER SEWALL INTERESTED

In an effort to start a movement for the organization of a baseball league Paducah, Hopkinsville, Clarksville, Tenn., and Cairo, Ill., a meeting will be held Thursday night at 8 o'clock on the second floor of the Paducah Traction company's building on Broadway. General Manager Sewall, of the traction company, will preside, and is desirous that everyone interested in the great national game attend to lend suggestions.

"I am personally interested in league baseball," said Mr. Sewall this morning, "and believe Paducah and the other towns could support a league. Now is the time to start something, and all of the old fans here are asked to attend the meeting."

It will be an open meeting and anyone may feel free to talk. At one time it was suggested that a city league be organized, but Mr. Sewall said today that a city league was not as popular as out of town cities coming in. Moreover, there is not as much interest displayed.

Paducah has an excellent ball park and as the traction company it, Mr. Sewall will do all in his power to effect the organization of a league. Work must be started soon in order that games can begin within a few months.

GOT 'LIGON

COLORADO PRISONER "CUTS UP" IN POLICE STATION.

"Whoo-ee, I've got to tell you, I've just got to tell everybody. I can't hold back any longer. Wow."

With those words of feverish exclamation Frank Smith, an alleged colored preacher, who was conveyed to police headquarters at 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon by Patrolman Emil Gourieux on a bench warrant, jumping him with housebreaking, leaped from his chair in the main police office and began shouting and prancing around. Unable to pacify him the police had to resort to other measures and called in City Physician W. J. Bass. Smith was finally calmed and was locked up.

In police court this morning he was peaceful and his trial was continued until Wednesday morning. He is alleged to have broken into the home of Bottle Osborn on December 17, 1909, and carried away property of value. His mind is believed to be affected.

Goes Back to Jail.

John Davis, who, it is alleged, stole a pistol from Deputy Jailer Walter Carter, was given 90 days in the county jail by Judge Alben Barkley on the charge of petit larceny. Davis was just released from prison.

Jealousy Provokes Crime.

Danville, Va., Feb. 14.—Jealous over alleged attentions of other men to a woman, Guy Roberts today shot and killed Mrs. Nellie Mayfield, proprietress of the Southern hotel here, and then blew out his own brains.

Tobacco Sales

Approximately 100 hogheads of tobacco belonging to the Planters' Protective association are being sampled at the association warehouse at Second and Jefferson streets today by M. M. Tucker, warehouseman for the western district. Grading will probably begin tomorrow and sales are expected this week.

Ten thousand pounds of loose leaf tobacco were offered and sold at Bohmer's warehouse this morning. The prices were $9.40 high, and $4.20 low.

Ballinger-Pinchot Committee Resumes Its Session With Large Attendance Today—Tatt Returns

Republicans Pleased With His New York Speech and His Bold Handling of Issues—Campaign Material.

Washington, Feb. 14.—After a half hour executive session, the Pinchot-Ballinger investigating committee today resumed its inquiry before the largest crowd yet present at its hearings. Glavis was again on the stand.

Glavis asked to make corrections in his past testimony. After a lengthy debate his attorney was permitted when he said all corrections would be typographical. Ballinger's attorney, Vertrees, then cross-examined him, regarding his knowledge of Alaska coal fields. He said the Cunningham group comprised about five tracts of 200 acres.

President's Speech.
Washington, Feb. 14.—Comment on President Taft's speech at the Lincoln banquet in New York Saturday night is today generally favorable among the Republicans. Insurgents commend his lack of dodging issues, but all qualify their approval, most of them objecting to his defense of the tariff law. The opinion generally is that it was one of the most forceful he ever delivered and will considerably help the Republicans in the coming congressional campaign. There is much speculation about what Democrat will reply. Bryan is expected to make remarks in his Commoner and National Committee Chairman Norman Mack in his new magazine.

Will Press Program.
Washington, Feb. 14.—The fact that President Taft in his New York speech picked out for emphasis such subjects as postal savings banks, interstate commerce legislation, anti-trust legislation, and conservation of natural resources, seems to mark these subjects for early consideration by congress. Especially is this true for the reason that measures to carry out these party pledges have reached advanced stages before the appropriate committees.

It is remarked also that the character of Mr. Taft's allusions to the federal incorporation bill would hardly justify the placing of that measure in the first rank of administration measures, while the fact that the ship subsidy was ignored altogether makes it questionable whether the president will bring pressure to bear to promote its chances.

The ship subsidy legislation seems almost certain to pass the senate, but the Democrats in the house are preparing to line up against the bill, and they believe with some Republican assistance they will be able to defeat it. It is not improbable that the senate would then resort to placing the measure upon the postoffice appropriation bill as a rider, in which event a second contest would be precipitated in the house.

Food Cost Inquiry.
It is expected that the select committee of the senate designed to conduct the proposed inquiry regarding the price of food products and other necessities of life will be announced tomorrow, or, if not then, at an early day of the present week. There is little doubt that the Republican membership of the committee will consist, as heretofore announced, of Senator Lodge, chairman, and Senators Elihu, McChesney, Smoot and Crawford. The Democratic membership has not been determined definitely, but the indications are that Senator Simmons, of North Carolina, and Senator Clarke, of Arkansas, will be asked to officiate on behalf of the minority membership.

In the committee as thus composed the trans-Mississippi country would have four of the seven members. The Republican members generally express the opinion that the inquiry can be conducted so speedily as to insure a representative before the conclusion of the session of congress and the efforts will be directed to that end. They will undertake especially to demonstrate that the tariff is not responsible for the rise in prices.

Ballinger Investigation.
The question of whether the house committee on ways and means will undertake the investigation of the high cost of living, in view of the action of the senate, is still undetermined. There is no general demand for a rival inquiry and the indications are that the house will be willing to leave the whole subject to the senate, as the latter's probe is intended to constitute a defense of Republican principles and is designed for use in the coming congressional elections.

Postal savings banks and appropriation bills will take up practically the entire week in the senate. In the house the rivers and harbors bill will probably occupy considerable time, and there are other appropriation bills ready for consideration. Among these are the postoffice bill, carrying about $240,000,000, and the Indian bill. It is unlikely that any of the administration bills will be considered in the house this week.

The Ballinger-Pinchot investigation is scheduled for resumption tomorrow. There will be important hearings also at both ends of the capitol on the administration railroad bill.

MAYOR APPOINTS ALL EXECUTIVES IF BILL PASSES

Amendment to Second Class City Charter is Introduced in Senate.

Combs of Lexington Father of it.

COMPLETE COPY OF MEASURE.

The principal changes consist in placing the appointment of all executive officials, now chosen by the general council, in the hands of the mayor. It also provides that policemen and the city jailer may receive fees per capita.

The bill follows:

The corporate boundaries of each of said cities shall continue as they now are established, until altered by law; and every such city bounded in part by the Ohio river, shall have concurrent jurisdiction with the state of Kentucky over the waters of that river opposite thereto, and if the boundary line between any two or more of said cities, or of any such city and a county or counties not embraced in such city, shall be the Licking river or other stream within the state, each city shall have concurrent jurisdiction with the other, and with such county or counties, over the waters of such river or stream opposite thereto, and for governmental purposes said cities are separated from the counties in which they are located."

Sec. 2. That article three, section eight, is amended by striking out 23 to 27 "all officers and agents of the city, in any of its departments, not required to be otherwise elected or appointed, shall be elected by the general council in joint session upon a joint viva voce vote subject to removal at any time by the said general council," and substituting therefor:

"All ministerial officers and agents of the city, whose offices have been or may hereafter be created by the general council, and not required to be elected by the people, shall be annually appointed by the mayor, and all legislative officers and agents of the city shall be elected by the general council in joint session upon a joint viva voce vote, subject to removal by the general council at any time." So that said section as amended and re-enacted shall read:

"Section 8. Vacancies in the offices elected by the general council, as now provided, shall be filled by election in joint session for the remainder of the term vacated. Vacancies in offices elected by popular vote shall be filled by the appointment of the mayor for the remainder of the term, except that a vacancy in the office of mayor shall be filled by election by the general council; Provided, that the unexpired term will end at the end of the next succeeding annual election at which either city, town, county, district or state officers are to be elected, and if three months intervene before said succeeding annual election, the office shall be filled as aforesaid until said election, and then said vacancy shall be filled by election for the remainder of the term. If three months do not intervene between the happening of said vacancy and the next succeeding annual election at which city, town, county, district or state officers are to be elected, the office shall be filled by appointment by the mayor until the second succeeding annual election at which city, town, county, district or state officers are to be elected; and then, if any part of the term remains unexpired, the office shall be filled by election until the regular term for election of officers to fill said offices. All ministerial officers and agents of the city, whose offices have been or may hereafter be created by the general council, not required to be elected by the people, shall be annually appointed by the mayor subject to removal by the general council at any time, and all legislative officers and agents of the city shall be elected by the general council in joint session upon joint viva voce vote, subject to removal by the general council at any time."

FEBRUARY CIVIL TERM COMMENCES IN CIRCUIT COURT

Slander Suit Against Former Sheriff Ogilvie is First One Tried.

Other Proceedings Held First Day.

NAMES OF JURORS IN PANEL.

The February term of civil court had its real beginning this morning when the trial of jury cases was called. The petit jurors were empaneled and the court began work on an extra large docket. It will require about three weeks to dispose of the cases set for trials by a jury.

The most important case was the suit of Charles Brown against John W. Ogilvie, former sheriff of the county, for $2,500 damages for alleged slander. Considerable interest was attached to the case, and a well crowded court room heard the evidence. It was claimed that while sheriff, Mr. Ogilvie, in his office, told Mrs. Ethel Ogilvie that "Charles Brown swore a lie." Mr. Ogilvie denied making the statement. The statement is alleged to have been made growing out of a suit in a magistrate's court when Brown swore he did not have certain funds in his hands. The jury was out only a short time and the verdict was in favor of Mr. Ogilvie.

The suit of Rebecca Smith against the East Tennessee Telephone company was continued on motion of the plaintiff. The suit was brought for alleged failure to deliver a message about the death of a relative. The case was set for the seventh day of the next term.

After part of the evidence in the case of J. L. Stanford against the Paducah Traction company the plaintiff filed an affidavit for a continuance.

The Jury.

The petit jury empaneled was: H. C. Savage, Henry Koakle, R. L. Tyree, A. D. Hughes, F. F. Gholson, J. W. Hall, W. K. Rudolph, G. Z. Umbaugh, Gus T. Smith, August Hazotte, J. M. Gilbert, R. C. Overstreet, J. C. Maret, L. K. Hunt, James Wellie, J. K. Ferguson, P. P. Fitzpatrick, O. T. Anderson, W. A. Markle, Ira Rudolph, T. E. Boswell, J. W. Bethel, A. L. Poat, J. H. Schneidman, W. M. Sealing, C. K. Lamond, L. J. Melton, William Leonard, J. E. Ware and John Dedrick.

The cases for tomorrow are: February 15: J. E. Johnson vs. E. Thompson & company; Mollie Leigh vs. P. M. Bichon; F. M. Fisher vs. Clarence Dickerson; W. H. Carter vs. A. C. Stewart; J. H. Carter vs. A. C. Stewart.

BAD CHECK MAN IS WELCHING PEOPLE

CHIEF SINGERY WARNS HOTEL AND RESTAURANT PROPRIETORS.

Warning has been given all hotels and other business houses in Paducah by Chief of Police Singery to guard against a man giving his name as P. R. Welch, who has been operating recently in Owensboro, Ky., and representing himself as an agent for the Welch Grape Juice company, of Westfield, N. Y. By this means the man has obtained more than $400 on bogus checks.

This morning Chief Singery received a letter from the company through M. H. Lindsay, president. Mr. Lindsay stated that a man, representing himself as Welch, has visited Owensboro, Term Haute, Indianapolis, Marion, Ill., and Ft. Wayne, Ind. As he recently visited Owensboro Chief Singery is of the opinion that he will pay a visit to Paducah and is warning business men. The grape juice company will pay a reward for his arrest.

Nick Shuttler Set Free

Nick Shuttler, the steamboat mate, who heard voices calling from the customhouse vault Saturday morning and was arrested as a suspect, was this morning set free by Chief of Police Singery upon the advice of City Physician Bass, who examined him and pronounced Shuttler not dangerous to be at large. Chief Singery, however, has warned all of his men to keep an eye on Shuttler. Shuttler's condition was about the same today as it was Saturday.

HOOK WORM

HEALTH OFFICER FINDS CASES
IN NORTH CHRISTIAN.

Two Young Men Believed to Have Been Victims of Malady
Several Years.

Hopkinsville, Ky., Feb. 14.—Dr.
J. B. Jackson, secretary of the Christian county board of health, believes that he has discovered two genuine and well developed cases of hookworm. Dr. Jackson has seen the afflicted parties, boys of about seventeen and twenty years of age, and he says they have every symptom of the malady that is now claiming so much attention of the medical fraternity.

These boys live about twenty-five miles from Hopkinsville and in the rugged portion of the county, and for that reason Dr. Jackson has not yet been able to apply tests to the patients to determine fully whether or not they are afflicted with hook-worm. He intends to bring them to town at the first opportunity and make a corroborative diagnosis, which he confidently expects to sus-tain his preliminary opinion as to the nature of the trouble.

Both cases are supposed to have appeared about five or six years ago.
Since that time the older boy has declined to such an extent that his mind was considerably affected and it was in this regard that Dr. Jackson was first called in. After a careful examination he decided that it was hookworm that was causing the trouble and he administered remedies accordingly and when he next saw the patient he found him much improved, thus bearing out his diagnosis. The second boy, who is about seventeen years of age, has never developed since he was about thirteen and Dr. Jackson ascribes this to the workings of the hook-worm.

The boys are brothers and belong to a respected white family of the extreme northern portion of this county, and so far are the only ones who have shown the alarming symptoms. For the present the boys are being withheld. When Dr. Jackson makes his final test he will probably call in the other physicians in the town and county so that all may get the benefit of studying the cases in hand.

TEMPERAMENTAL IMPROVEMENT

IS NOTED BY HENRY CLEWS ON CHANGE.

Thinks Fear of Legislative and Judicial Thinking is Subsiding at Last.

LAW IS ALWAYS CONSERVATIVE

New York, Feb. 14. (Special).— It is a source of gratification to one more able to take a more cheerful view of the broad financial outlook.
Fluctuations in prices and securities from day to day may, it is true, still continue erratic; accidents may still happen; but there are distinct indications that the storm is clearing.
Indeed, the weight of uncertainty and dread has already measurably lightened and the more general disposition in usually conservative circles now is to appraise the controlling factors of the security market in a calm, a sane, manner.

This does not mean that the fundamental situation itself has suddenly changed. The real change is temperamental, affecting chiefly the popular interpretation of the situation.
Threatened legislation, having been the pretext for numerous concerted drives against a highly nervous market, is now being appraised at its real value; and it is found that apprehensions have had slight tangible basis.

The real influence behind the recent rapid and serious break in the stock market was the fact that important interests had forced the price level up to a point not justified by dividend returns, either present or in prospect—a fact that was well known to these interests. Amidst artificial enthusiasm they were successful in distributing a large part of their securities among weaker holders, who have since been compelled to take severe losses which they should charge off to experience account and profit thereby; they enforced liquidation created a situation that at times felt like short of demoralization.
Having sold out at high prices these large market interests were not averse to taking the double advantage of profits on short commitments and of repurchasing their supplies of securities at the resultant declines, extending in the instances of some standard stocks 20 to 30 points from the high prices reached. Thereupon the fear of adverse legislation became opportunistically unsettling and was insidiously encouraged to take responsibility for the demoralized conditions, being ably seconded by equally distorted views of the disorder to result in the event of the supreme court sustaining the lower courts by declaring the Standard Oil and American Tobacco company illegal combinations on the ground that they restrain trade. The absurdity of this undue anxiety has already been indicated in these articles. It is worthwhile, however, to once more look the legislative situation frankly in the face, beginning with the administration's proposed new laws. Best information from Washington is that neither the administration's railroad regulation bill nor the federal incorporation bill will be enacted at this session. The object of their introduction has been to subject them to the crucial test of public discussion and criticism by which their unwise or dangerous features may be exposed and eliminated before they are placed upon the statute books. It is a safe assertion that when the administration's measures are finally enacted they will spell increased value and solidity for the higher class of securities that are traded in on the New York Stock Exchange.

President Taft's federal incorporation bill will, in my opinion, be as drastically changed in its provisions before it gets through congress as it is drastic in its original form, and when the sting is eradicated it will be perfectly harmless to the stock market, but beneficial to the securities dealt in at the New York Stock exchange.

And we are justified also in taking an equally broad and liberal view of the result of the litigation soon to be finally decided by the supreme court of the United States. What will be the net result if the decisions of the lower courts are sustained? What will be the "worst," if the Standard Oil company and the American Tobacco company are informed they they have been operating on illegal lines? We already have the answer in the decision of the Northern Securities case, in which the court merely required that affairs must be put in proper legal order; property was not confiscated and stockholders were not in any important degree losers. Affairs were quickly adjusted in a legal way and the roads continued to do business and make money for their many owners. There is no logical reason to expect a different result in the cases now pending, even if, as already noted, the "worst" happens. On the other hand, these approaching decisions will in any event have the compensatory benefits that they will provide an interpretation by the highest tribunal of the land on the highly controversial question of what the Sherman anti-trust law does in fact forbid.
When the decisions that, as alleged,
have been causing such nervousness are finally rendered, other corporations will in any event know whether they are controverting the law, and sary organization that shall be perfectly legal. The ultimate result of bound to the soundness of securities

Bonds.

An agreeable feature of the week has been the purchase of bonds and to some extent investment stocks by Paris, Berlin and to a rather more restricted degree by London. These purchases are entirely apart from the arbitrage dealings on the stock exchange. In the latter the purchases materially outdistanced the sales and the net aggregate purchases on both accounts have been sufficient to au-mentally modify sterling exchange rates. Money, both at home and abroad, seems to have entered a prolonged period of ease, a significant indication being the reduction this week by the governors of the Bank of England of their minimum discount to 3 per cent from 3 1/2 per cent, while the Imperial Reichsbank reduced its minimum to 4 per cent from 4 1/2 per cent. Not many weeks ago we had the abnormal situation of standard investments yielding less than the money market cost of carrying them. That was a substantial warning that the price level of securities was too high. Today we have the reverse situation, investment stocks easily carrying themselves with no reasonable expectations of a change in these conditions in the near future. Money is now returning to this center from the laterior, having completed its annual circuit; the declines that have taken place in cotton as well as in the stock market have released a large volume of funds. It requires, for instance, 20 to 25 per cent less money to carry stocks than when the market was at its recent high level.
Furthermore, trade is not so active as to at all threaten the money situation, and it seems a fair assumption that the money supply during the next few months will be quite ample to comfortably take care of the stock market as well as of trade. Meanwhile it is of interest to note that there is no longer present a disposition on the part of some leaders as shown during recent periods of stress to withdraw funds from circulation as a matter of individual prudence and preparation for possible disaster in the market as a whole.

A GOOD THING

When It Comes Along Don't Let It Get Away From You.

"I really feel that it is hardly possible to say too much in favor of Grape-Nuts as a health food," writes a Chicago woman.

"For 9 to 10 years I had suffered from indigestion and chronic constipation, caused by the continued use of coffee and rich, heavy, greasy foods. My ailments made my life so wretched that I was eager to try anything that held out a promise of help.
And that is how I happened to buy a package of Grape-Nuts food last spring.

"That ended my experiments. For in Grape-Nuts I found exactly what I wanted and needed. From the day
I began to use it I noticed an improvement and in a very few weeks
I found my health completely restored.

"My digestive apparatus now works perfectly and my chronic constipation has been entirely relieved. I have gained in weight materially, and life is a very pleasant thing to me so long as I use Grape-Nuts once or twice a day. I leave it off for a few days my health suffers.

"A physician in our town has great success in treating stomach troubles, and the secret of it is that he puts his patients on Grape-Nuts food—it always brings back the power of digestion."

SOCIALISTS IN GERMANY RIOT

MEETINGS TO PROTEST AGAINST SUFFRAGE BILL.

Several Are Wounded in Brushes
With Police in Several Cities of the Kingdom.

GREAT MANY ARE ARRESTED.

Berlin, Feb. 14.—Demonstrations of Socialists throughout the kingdom following Sunday's protests against the suffrage bill, resulted in many serious affairs between the demonstrators and the police. In Berlin several policemen were severely wounded by stones, and scores of Socialist supporters seriously injured by the sabres of the police. The worst affair occurred at Neumunster, in Holstein, where a workingman was mortally wounded by a knife through the lungs and another's hand cut off,
and a third lost an ear.

Berlin, Feb. 14.—Socialist mass meetings to protest against the suffrage bill were held in most cities of the kingdom today. Nearly all passed without incident, but at several places collisions with the police occurred.

At Halle, after the close of the meetings, about 2,000 Socialists attacked the police, who drew their sabres and wounded many.

At Koenigsberg, where the Socialists returned in a body from the suburban meeting, the police in attempting to divert the crowds into the side streets, used their side arms and made a number of arrests.

At Duisburg, on the Rhine, the Socialists in a series of street demonstrations after the meetings collided with the police's sabres and several manifestants were cut and bruised.
At Cologne huge crowds assembled in the cathedral square intending to march to the meeting place, but strong cordons of police held the chief thoroughfares and forced the crowds to take the side streets.

In the suburbs of Berlin forty meetings were held. A majority of them were peacefully conducted but in Rixdorf, a southern suburb, an immense crowd gathered in the public square and listened to speeches. The police demanded the people to disperse. They refused. The police thereupon tried to break up the meeting, and some of the crowd responded with a shower of stones, slightly wounding two officers.

After the meeting large processions paraded the suburban streets singing the working men's Marseilles.
Some tried to reach the central sections, but the police held all approaches and dispersed the crowd without difficulty. Later the police ordered a crowd of youths to disperse at Kronprinz but were greeted with shouts of "bloodhounds" and a shower of stones. The police charged, and several of the rioters were wounded. At Essen several Socialists were cut by police sabres.

fessing faults or advertising virtues.

Chicago, Feb. 14.—The endeavor to secure the united effort of all the reform organizations of Chicago in the present fight for a "dry Chicago" have been successful, except as to a single organization. The one organization that has thus far, seemed lukewarm toward the campaign is the Chicago Law and Order League, of which Arthur Barrage Farwell is the secretary in charge. In a conference between Mr. Farwell and James K.
Shields, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, it was announced that the Farwell organization will not actively assist the campaign. "I am personally opposed to the saloon on principles," said Mr. Farwell. "Nevertheless, the organization I represent does not seek to change laws nor to carry elections." Superintendent Shields admitted that the executive committee of his organization is disappointed at the attitude of the Law and Order League, although he expressed confidence in the personal views of Mr. Farwell.

PRESIDENT SAYS PLEDGE IS KEPT

GOES INTO DETAIL CONCERNING PAYNE TARIFF LAW.

Governor Hughes, of New York, Declares Himself For Taft
in 1912.

LINCOLN BANQUET SPEECHES

New York, Feb. 14.—In his speech here Saturday at the Lincoln banquet of the New York Republican club, President Taft made defense in detail of the policies of his administration. He declared business "hysteria," due to agitation and fear of drastic action against corporations in general, to be unjustified, and throughout his talk pleaded for the sinking of factional differences toward the future of the Republican party and the carrying out of its pledges.

"If the enforcement of the law is not consistent with the present method of carrying on business, then it does not speak well for the present methods of conducting business, and they must be changed to conform to the law," declared the president, and his audience at the banquet tables in the Waldorf-Astoria cheered the utterance. Gov. Hughes, who shared the honors of the evening with the president, joined in the applause.

Governor Hughes said during his speech:

"The American people are fair enough to recognize a great man filling a great place and doing his duty with absolute fidelity. For that reason President Taft will be re-nominated and re-elected."

Among the tariff President Taft quoted the platform:

FOR AGED PEOPLE.

Old Folks Should Be Careful in Their Selection of Regulative Medicine.

With advanced age comes inactive blood movement and sluggish liver. Nature is unable to perform her proper functions and requires assistance. Otherwise, there is constant suffering from constipation and its attendant evils. Old folks should never use physic that is harsh and irritating.

We have a safe, dependable and altogether ideal remedy that is particularly adapted to the requirements of aged people and persons of weak constitution who suffer from constipation or other bowel disorder. We are so certain that it will completely relieve these complaints and give absolute satisfaction in every particular that we offer them with our personal guarantee that they shall cost the user nothing if they fail to substantiate our claims. This remedy is called Rexall Orderlies.

Rexall Orderlies are eaten like candy. They have a soothing, healing, strengthening, tonic and regenerative action upon the dry, mucous lining and the relaxed muscular coat of the bowel. They produce a natural, successive contraction and relaxation of the muscular fibres of the bowel walls, generating a wave-like motion which forces their contents onward and outward; thus stimulating nature in perfect bowel movement. They tone up and strengthen the nerves and muscles and restore the bowels and associated organs to more vigorous and healthy activity. They may be taken at any time without inconvenience; do not cause any griping, nausea, diarrhoea, excessive looseness, flatulence or other disagreeable effect. Try Rexall Orderlies on our guarantee: 36 tablets 25 cents, and 12 tablets 10 cents. Remember you can obtain Rexall Remedies in Paducah only at our store.—The Rexall Store, W. B. McPherson, Fourth and Broadway.

"The Republican party declared unequivocally for the revision of the tariff by a special session of congress immediately following the inauguration of the next president, and commends the steps already taken to this end in the work assigned to the appropriate committees of congress which are now investigating the operation and effect of existing schedules. In all tariff legislation the true principle of protection is best maintained by the imposition of such duties as will equal the difference between the cost of production at home and abroad, together with a reasonable profit to American industries."

"We favor the establishment of maximum and minimum rates to be administered by the president under limitations fixed in the law, the maximum to be available to meet discriminations by foreign countries against American goods entering their markets, and the minimum to represent the normal measure of protection at home the aim and purpose of the Republican policy being not only to preserve, without excessive duties, that security against foreign competition to which American manufacturers, farmers, and producers are entitled, but also to maintain the high standard of living of the wage earners of this country, who are the most direct beneficiaries of the protective system."

"Between the United States and the Philippines we believe in a free interchange of products with such limitations as to sugar and tobacco as will afford adequate protection to domestic interests."

"We did revise the tariff. It is impossible to revise the tariff without awakening the active participation in the formation of the schedules of those producers whose business will be affected by a change. This is the inherent difficulty in the adoption or revision of a tariff by our representative system."

"Nothing was expressly said in the platform that this revision was to be a downward revision. The implication that it was to be generally downward, however, was fairly given by the fact that those who uphold a protective tariff system defend it by the claim that after an industry has been established by shutting out foreign competition the domestic competition will lead to the reduction in price so as to make the original high tariff unnecessary."

"In the new tariff there were 654 decreases, 220 increases, and 1,150 items of the dutiable list unchanged, but this did not represent the fair proportion in most of the reductions and the increases, because the duties were decreased on those articles which had a consumption value of nearly $5,000,000,000, while they were increased on those articles which had a consumption value of less than $1,000,000,000. Of the increases the consumption value of those affected which are of luxuries—to wit: silks, wines, liquors, perfumeries, pomades, and like articles—amounted to nearly $600,000,000, while the increase on articles not of luxury affected but about $300,000,000, as against decreases on about $5,000,000,000 of consumption."

"Downward Revision, He Says.
"I repeat, therefore, that this was a downward revision. It was not downward with reference to silks or liquors or high priced cottons in the nature of luxuries. It was downward in respect to nearly all other articles except woollens, which were not affected at all."

"Certainly it was not promised that the rates of luxuries should be reduced. The revenues were falling off, there was a deficit promised, and it was essential that the revenues should be increased. It was no violation of the promise to increase the revenues by increasing the tax on luxuries, provided there was downward revision on all other articles."

"The one substantial defect in compliance with the promise of the platform was the failure to reduce woollens. Does that defect so color the action of the Republican party as to make it a breach of faith leading to its condemnation? I do not think so. Parties are like men. Revisions are like the work of men—they are not perfect. The change this tariff effected was a marked change downward in the rate of the duties, and it was a recognition by the party that the time had come when instead of increasing duties they must be decreased, when the party recognized in its platform, and in much of what it did, that the proper measure of protection was the difference in cost in the production of articles here and abroad, including a fair profit to the manufacturer."

Dispute as to What Difference Is.

"There was a dispute as to what that difference is, and whether it was recognized in the change of all the duties downward. Particularly was this the case on the materials that enter into the manufacture of paper and paper itself. The reduction on print paper was from $6 to $3.75, or about 37 per cent."

"There was a real difference of opinion on the question of fact whether the new duty correctly measured the difference in the cost of production of print paper abroad and print paper here. It affected the counting rooms of the newspaper of the country and invited the attention of the newspaper proprietors who had associated themselves together like other interests for the purpose of obtaining a reduction of the tariff."

"The failure to make a larger reduction showed itself clearly in the editorial columns of a great many of the newspapers, whatever their party predilection. The amount of misrepresentation to which the tariff bill in its effect as a downward revision bill was subjected never has been exceeded in this country, and it doubtless will take the actual operation of the tariff bill for several years to show to the country exactly what the legislation and its effect are."

Effect of Law So Far.

"It is perhaps too early to institute the fairest comparisons between the Payne-Aldrich bill and the bill which preceded it, but the Payne-Aldrich bill has been in operation now for six months and figures are at hand from which we may make a reasonable inference, first as to whether it is a revision downward, and second, as to its capacity for producing revenue, for it must be borne in mind that the passage of the law was demanded not only for the purpose of changing rates in their effect upon the industries of the country, but also for the purpose of increasing the revenue, and the success of the measure is to be judged by its results in both these respects."

"The bureau of statistics is authority for the statement that during the first six months of the operation of the Payne law, which has just ended, the average of duty paid on all dutiable imports was 21.09 per cent ad valorem. The average rate of duty paid on all imports for the same six months for the four preceding years under the Dingley law was 24.03."

"This would show that the reduction in the Payne law is 2.94 per cent of the value of the goods, or that the reduction below the previous tariff rates is 12 per cent, showing a downward revision of this extent in those goods which are dutiable. But this is not all. Under the Payne law 51.6 per cent of the gross imports for the last six months have been entered free, while under the four years preceding for the same six months for free list amounted to 45.46 per cent of the total importations. So there was not only a reduction of duty on dutiable imports of about 12 per cent, but also an enlargement of about the same percentage of the free list."

Compares Revenue Figures.

"For the production of revenue the Payne law is even more an improvement on the Dingley bill. During the six months the Payne tariff was in force, from Aug. 5 to the night of Feb. 5, the customs receipts amounted to $166,002,856.54. Under the Wilson-Gorman tariff the semi-annual average was $83,147,265.84. Under the Wilson tariff the monthly average was $13,857,937.65. Under the Dingley tariff the monthly average was $21,710,973.64, while under the Payne tariff the monthly average has been $21,677,142.75, or 100 per cent greater than the monthly average under the Wilson tariff, and 26 per cent greater than the monthly average under the Dingley tariff."

"Of course as the country increases in population, the customs receipts increase, but even considering the population, the increase in the tariff receipts has been marked. Under the Wilson tariff the average annual customs receipts per capita were $2.38; under the Dingley tariff $3.23; while under the Payne tariff they are $3.71."

"For the six months that the Payne tariff has been in force the total receipts both from customs and internal revenue have been $323,599,231.91, while the disbursements have been $332,783.08, showing that the expenditures exceeded the receipts by only $8,841,051.17, with no collection yet from the corporation tax. For the corresponding period last year the expenditures exceeded the receipts by over $40,000,000. This, showing indicates that under the present customs law the deficit promptly will be wiped out and that to meet our normal expenditures we shall have ample revenue. 'Best Customs Law Ever Passed.'"

"I therefore venture to repeat the remark I have had occasion to make before, that the present customs law is the best customs law that ever has been passed, and it is most significant in this that it indicates on the part of the Republican party the adoption of a policy to change from an increase in duties to a reduction of them, and to effect an increase of revenues at the same time."

"The net has furnished to the executive the power to apply the maximum and minimum clauses in order to prevent undue discrimination on the part of foreign countries, and this is obtaining additional concessions in respect to impositions on our foreign trade."

"The act has done justice to the Philippine Islands by giving them free trade with the United States."

"More than all this, the new tariff act has provided for the appointment of a tariff board to obtain impartial evidence upon which, when a revision of the tariff seems wise, we shall have at hand the data from which can be determined with some degree of accuracy the difference between the cost of producing articles abroad and the cost of producing them in this country."

"The great difficulty in the hearing and discussion of the present tariff bill was the absence of satisfactory and credible evidence on either side of the issues as to low or high tariffs. The importer on the one hand and the manufacturer on the other were present to give their fallible judgments, affected by their own pecuniary interests, as to the facts under investigation. Men who were struggling to find the truth were greatly perplexed by the conflicting testimony."

Plans For Further Inquiry.

"The tariff bill authorizes the president to expend $75,000 in employing persons to assist him in the administration of the maximum and minimum clause and to assist him and other officers of the government in the administration of the tariff law. I have construed this to mean that I may use the board appointed under his power not only to look into the foreign tariffs but also to examine the question with respect to each item in our tariff bill, what the cost of production of the merchandise taxed is, and what its cost is abroad."

"This is not an easy task for impartial experts, and it requires a large force. I expect to apply to congress this year for $250,000 to organize a force through which this investigation may go on and the results by recorded for the use of the executive and congress when they desire to avail themselves of the record. In this way any subsequent revision may be carried on with the aid of data obtained officially and without regard to its argumentative effect upon the question of raising or lowering duties."

"Taken as a whole, therefore, I do not hesitate to repeat that the Republican party has substantially complied with its promise in respect to the tariff, and that it has set itself strongly in the right direction toward lower tariffs and furnished the means by which such lower tariffs can be properly and safely fixed."

"An investigation by the tariff board of the sort proposed certainly will take a full two years or more. Meantime the operation of the present tariff promises to be consistent with the prosperity of the country and with the furnishing of sufficient funds with which to meet the heavy but necessary expenditures of carrying on our great government."

To beef, or not to beef?
That is the question.

Whether 'tis nobler in the human corporation to suffer the stings and gnawings of unrequited appetite, or by taking pledge against the food-price boosters end them.

To stuff, to taste, to chew, to gorge!—steak, chop, roast, tongue, ribs, wieners—perhaps to dream! Aye, there's the grub!

For is that dream what vision may come—12-cent hamburger, 10-cent tenderloin, 8-cent liver—to harrow up our starved imaginations. or patient perseverance.—Liddon.

Society girls are the heroines of the shrewd wakers' strike; but fortunately for them, they are not the ones, who are making the sacrifices.

We fear that fool magazine writing friend of Roosevelt's, who is going to meet him and warn him against President Taft, will find that President Taft is just as good friend of Roosevelt as he is.

Since the Hopkinsville New Era

uttered that boast about Christian county going Democratic for the first time in history, pellagra and hook-worm have become epidemic in the county seat and wolves are feasting

the rural districts.

Judge Glens, editor of the Henderson Gleaner and defeated candidate for the congressional nomination in the Second district, says

"Hurrah for Stanley" in a short paragraph and devotes a leader to

"The Henderson Dam".

The bill to prevent tipping is a sample of the idea fixed in the minds of some people, that all we need to effect reforms is laws.

Others think reforms can be effectuated by enforcing the law, which is true, if they admit that a law cannot be enforced until public sentiment is behind it.

THE TRIBUNE'S POLL.

The Chicago Tribune's poll of the middle western states on the subject of Joe Cannon rings true to public sentiment, regarding that statesman's personal popularity; but not so much can be said of the result of its poll on the Payne tariff bill, which it disingenuously refers to as the "Aldrich-Cannon" tariff.

Possibly, not consciously free traders, the Chicago papers are perceptively influenced by the big Chicago

importers, who for selfish business interests are free traders at heart,

and the question asked the editors

in a half dozen states by the Tribune concerning the tariff was unfair and could not be answered in the affirmative without an explanation. The question asked was:

"Do you endorse the Aldrich-Cannon tariff law?"

The answer yes, would imply that the writer is perfectly satisfied with the tariff. President Taft expressed himself as not entirely satisfied;

yet there is no doubt that the tariff

did reduce the rates on the necessaries of life, it gave us free trade with the Philippines, it provided for the maximum and minimum schedules, whereby for the first time we have secured fair treatment from Germany, and are on the eve of a tariff settlement with Canada; it includes the clause permitting government inspection of corporation

books so that some basis for federal control of interstate commerce is assured, and it provided for a commission to prepare data for a further and more perfect revision of the tariff itself.

We suspect that the opening of corporate books has produced the agitation against the tariff on the part of some publications more than any feeling that the dear people are not being well treated. If they got along so well under the Dingley rates, which were much higher, they are not in so sad straits on account of the present tariff.

THE ATTITUDE OF PARTIES.

Which party most truly represents the people and is the most to be trusted: the one, which clings to its first formed policies, or the one which constantly changes? This question is important in the present

national situation.

Democratic leaders call the Republican party a party of opportu-

nism, because its leaders from time to time have not hesitated to change

front on questions, and the attitude of the present administration and its predecessors, for instance, would have been regarded as dangerous

radicalism by party leaders a dozen years ago. Republican leaders declare the Democratic party is archaic, clinging to policies of a century ago instead of the fundamental principles, which made those policies

expedient then and inexpedient now.

The answer depends much upon the way a person regards a political party. If he looks upon a party as something apart from the people, and composed of politicians, the people having only the choice between two rulers, as it were, then the Democratic theory is best; because one would know at all times he could expect from that party free trade, stin-gued and strict, unchanging construction of the federal constitution.

On the other hand, if he regards a political party simply as the plastic instrumentality by which the will of the people is to be recorded, the Republican party more nearly conforms to his ideal; for even while it is in power, a citizen can see it slowly

moulded to the public sentiment;

and the process, we are watching

just now is excruciating as Joe Cannon or some other hardened old lump is squeezed through the fingers of the times into oblivion; but the final result will be a faithful registering of the popular will.

Unquestionably the present enormous growth of industrialism, in so far as it is attributable to anything

besides the natural result of competition, is due to Republican policies.

Under any other policy American industries would have withered and been incapable of their present development. Yet, it but expressed the desire of the people for great individual opportunity and wealth,

and that wealth is the foundation for something grander to come. The wealth we have produced will remain. Now the sentiment of the whole country is changed. Both parties and all the people desire a curb on industrial combinations,

legislative reform that protects the interests of the individuals, the preservation of our natural resources for the benefit of posterity. How are both parties meeting the demand?

The Democratic party is assuming that the people are tired of Republican rule and that they will naturally turn to Democracy. What do they offer? Free trade, of course.

But they oppose adding to the authority of the federal government to control interstate commerce corporations, trust organizations and water power rights. They believe that it is infringement on state rights,

which must be preserved at all hazards, lest the federal government secure too much power over the people.

The truth is the Republican party is swinging toward federalism. That was a dreadful thing in the days of Alexander Hamilton, when kings were always a possibility. There is no danger of kings today. The only danger today is capitalistic imperialism, and the Republican leaders declare that the divided state governments and that "willful zone"

between federal and state authority

are responsible for the ineffectual efforts thus far made to check the rapacity of combinations in restraint of trade. They would give the federal government authority commen-surate with the needs of the situation to check and control these combinations.

The Democratic party comes forward offering its policies to the people in the hope of finding discon-

t with Republican policies. Republican policies are slowly yielding to the pressure of popular demand.

We do not believe the elny has become too hardened to work; but it would have been, had not new mat-

terial been brought from the west and mixed with the lumps of Cannonism, Aldrichism and Deweyism.

They will be cast out eventually, and just so long as the Republican party remains plastic in the hands of the maker of destinies, that long it will continue the dominant party, though nothing may remain to associate it with the past, excepting the name.

EIGHTH DISTRICT PEOPLE WANT ROADS

More roads are wanted by citizens in the Eighth district of the county. This morning a petition was filed in county court by citizens, asking that a mile of road be built near Lamont. The new road would be a branch of the Cairo road and extend to the Childress road. An old petition for the opening of a road near Woodville was brought up. No action was taken this morning, but in a short time County Judge Barker will appoint commissioners to go over the proposed route and estimate the expense.

The funeral was held at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the East Baptist church, the Rev. Mr. Riley, officiating. Burial was at Oak Grove cemetery.

CHICKENS DESTROYING FRESH MADE FLOWER BEDS

Chickens running at large in the city are a nuisance is the opinion of many citizens, who have resolved to beautify their yards. In fact it is under way to secure a monster petition and present it to the members of the general council, requesting that an ordinance be passed prohibiting chickens from running at large. The prizes offered by the board of park commissioners and augmented by The Evening Sun have inspired many citizens to beautify their premises. During the warm days last week work was begun of preparing flower beds, and making preliminary arrangements. As soon as the citizen would leave his work stray chickens would descend upon the yard, scratch up the beds, and do much mischief. It is proposed to require citizens owning chickens to keep them on their own premises and prevent the fowls from damaging premises of neighbors who desire to compete in the yard contests.

Hospital Inquiry.

The special committee appointed from both boards of the general council to investigate affairs at Elverside hospital will be called together this week by Alderman Joe E. Potter. Mr. Potter said today no day for the first meeting has been set, but it will be either Thursday or Friday evening. He was of the opinion that the investigations will be concluded in a short time. The ordinance committee will meet at the city hall Thursday night. There are several important matters to be thrashed out, one of which is the provision for $200 a year to be paid a deputy city clerk.

Boile of Calhoun Field.

On a claim amounting to $2,222, held by the Paducah Marine Railway company, at First and Washington streets, the steamer Boile of Calhoun was tied up in the Tennessee river yesterday by Deputy United States Marshal Elwood Neel. The boat was preparing to depart for St. Louis to resume the St. Louis and Calhoun county packet trade, but up until this afternoon the claim had not been settled. It is understood that a check covering the full amount was presented, but it was not certified and word is being awaited from St. Louis. The boat was recently overhauled on the ways here.

Walked Through Glass Door.

Jim Shelton, a popular young man of Fifth street and Kentucky avenue, is wearing patches on his face as a result of walking through a glass door at his home Saturday evening. On account of the darkness in the house Mr. Shelton could not see whether the door was open or closed, and, taking chances, he walked through. Instead of finding space he found a 3/4 of an inch glass, that was shattered. An ugly gash was cut just under his right eye and on his nose. Fortunately the broken glass did not touch his eyes.

The Best Hour of Life is when you do some great deed or discover some wonderful fact. This hour came to J. R. Pitt, of Rocky Mt., N. C., when he was suffering intensely, as he says, "from the worst cold I ever had, I then proved to my great satisfaction, what a wonderful Cold and Cough cure Dr. King's New Discovery is. For, after taking one bottle, I was entirely cured. You can't say anything too good of a medicine like that." Its the surest and best remedy for diseased lungs, hemorrhages, LaGrippe, Asthma, Hay Fever—any Throat or Lung Trouble, 50c., $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by all druggists.

A Little Tragedy of Love.

She had told him that her father utterly disapproved of him and had issued peremptory orders that he should not come to the house, writes W. J. Lupton, in Judge. She trembled as she told him and there were tears in her eyes, for she feared that even then papa might be within hearing, possibly reach, of her loved one.

But he was brave.

When love was in the van, What cared he for any man?

He was, indeed, no fair-weather lover, and the storm and stress made him very much stancher in his devotion to the one girl in all the world for him.

"What boots it, dearest?" he whispered to her, soft and low, making her to his manly bosom, breathing into her shell-like ear. "What boots it?" "I do!" thundered papa, appearing upon the scene, rear entrance, and there was a dull, sickening thud which indicated that he did.

Life on Panama Canal has had one frightful drawback—malaria trouble—that has brought suffering and death to thousands. The germs cause chills, fever and ague, biliousness, jaundice, lassitude, weakness and general debility. But Electric Bitters never fail to destroy them and cure malaria troubles. "Three bottles completely cured me of a very severe attack of malaria," writes Wm. A. Fretwell, of Lucama, N. C. "and I've had good health ever since!" DIRECT PRIMARY LAW WILL PASS

EXPECTED THAT LOWER HOUSE WILL CONCUR.

Commission Form Too With Compromise on 40 Per Cent of Votes on Recall Proposition.

THE FRANCHISE AMENDMENTS

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 14.—When the lower house of the Illinois general assembly reconvenes Tuesday morning it will be confronted by the double-barreled primary bills which were passed by the senate last Thursday before adjourning, not to meet again until summoned by the lieutenant governor, whose call will depend entirely upon the progress the house makes with the bills which the senate has sent over.

Though there is some question whether the house will adopt the principal primary bill, the general belief is that it will. It is the house measure, carrying the senate committee amendments, and with the provision for nomination of members of the general assembly stricken out, this provision having been taken care of in the separate bill (the Gibson bill), which is framed along the lines of the Murray amendment to the house bill and which passed by a large margin.

That the two-bill idea of primary legislation will stir up some adverse comment in the house is believed probable. Minority Leader Beane not only opposed the series of administrative measures which he termed "book case bills," but he vigorously opposed the Murray amendment. It would not be a surprise, therefore, should he oppose not only the separate bill idea, but attack the Gibson bill itself.

Bill Expected to Pass.

The belief that the bills will pass is based upon the same line of argument presented in the senate Thursday, when the "antis" gracefully capitulated, realizing that they were outnumbered by the "directors" who declared for the double-bill because they believed direct primary legislation at this special session was obtainable in no other form, and that to continue to antagonize the legislation in that form might prevent the enactment of any primary legislation at all.

That the session is drawing to a close is certainly indicated by the fact that the senate voted to strike from the 153 roll the names of all committee clerks.

Governor Deneen is pleased with the week's developments in primary legislation. He believes the deep waterway measure will be taken up and passed by the house, but there is little favorable comment heard in the house upon which to base this optimism.

Commission Form. Aside from the primary legislation, the bill which has caused the greatest stir around the statehouse and in the cities throughout Illinois is the commission bill. This week the senate passed the house bill changing the Chaffin bill "joker" so as to make the recall percentage 40 instead of 75. This is considered by friends of the measure a reasonable compromise with the house. The arm of the commissioners was increased to four years by the senate, which body also inserted corporation amendments drawn by Senator Dalley, of Peoria, who professes to be a friend of this legislation.

These corporation provisions will cause trouble in the house. In substance they are as follows: No franchise shall be granted for a term longer than 20 years; no franchise shall be used to extend or enlarge any other franchise; no franchise in

AFTER SUFFERING FOR YEARS

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Park Rapids, Minn.—"I was sick for years while passing through the change of life and was hardly able to be around. After taking six bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I gained 30 pounds, am now able to do my own work and feel well."—Mrs. Ed. La Dot, Park Rapids, Minn.

Brookville, Ohio.—"I was irregular and extremely nervous. A neighbor recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to me and I have become regular and my nerves are much better."—Mrs. R. KENNISON, Brookville, Ohio.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotic or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record for the largest number of actual cures of female diseases we know of, and thousands of voluntary testimonials are on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass., from women who have been cured from almost every form of female complaints, inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion and nervous prostration. Every suffering woman owes it to herself to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial.

If you want special advice write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for it. It is free and always helpful.

existence shall be extended beyond the period fixed for its termination.

When a public utility corporation desires to issue stock or bonds, it shall file with the city clerk a statement showing the amount proposed and the purpose. Upon application, and after 30 days' notice, the commissioners, upon showing that the necessary interests of the corporation require it, may authorize a corporation to issue stocks and bonds, subject to the restrictions imposed.

provided such authority shall not be given for the issuance of funding bonds to replace other bonds in excess of amounts to which such bonds would be limited by the act.

Public utility corporations under this measure shall pay no less than 2 per cent of their gross receipts to the municipality as compensation for franchise privileges; this in addition to taxes. To ascertain the amount of gross receipts the commissioners are empowered to examine books, papers and records of franchise holders, to take testimony and to examine witnesses under oath. Every corporation holding a franchise must file an annual statement showing the amount of all stock issued, the indebtedness and its nature, the income and the amounts derived from each source, the expenditures in detail, and of all property and the fair market value of each item. Such statement to be made under oath. Failure to comply shall operate as a forfeiture of franchise.

Friends of the bill in the house will accept this as the best compromise measure available and will urge concurrence in the senate amendments to the house bill. Foes of the measure will find material for fight in the corporation clauses.

Collision on a Pier. Berkeley, Cal., Feb. 1.—A score of men were injured, some fatally, today when a Berkeley train on a Key Route pier telescoped an Oak

The accident occurred on a wooden pier, which runs across the arm of the bay to a station where the San Francisco ferry lands. Those injured were in the smoker on the rear end of the Oakland train.

Tales For a Winter Evening

The Count and the Manager

From the "Old Home House"

By JOSEPH C. LINCOLN

COPYRIGHT, 1907, BY A. S. BARNES & CO.

THE way we got into the hotel business in the first place came around like this: Me and Cap'n Jonadab went down to Wellmouth Port one day 'bout in March to look at some property he'd had left him. Jonadab's Aunt Sophrony had moved kind of sudden from that village to Heulah Land—they're a good ways apart, too—and Cap'n Jonadab had come in for the old farm, he being the only near relative.

Great big old fashioned house with fourteen big bedrooms in it, big barn, sheds and one thing or 'nother and perched right on top of a hill with five or six acres of ground round it, and now the March wind did whoop in off the sea and howl and screech loud-ness through the pine trees!

"Jonadab," says I, "what'll you take for your bedroom?"

"Well," he says, "Barzilla, the way I feel now I think I'd take a return ticket to Orham and be afraid of being took up for swindling at that."

"Neither of us says nothing more for a spell, and, first thing you know, we heard a carriage rattling somewhere up the road. I was shipwrecked once and spent two days in a boat looking for a sail. When I heard that rattling I felt just the way I done when I sighted the ship that picked us up."

"Jonadab," says I, "There's somebody coming!"

He was a tall chap with a smooth face, kind of sharp and knowing. "Cap'n Wilson?" he says to me, sticking out a gloved finger.

"Not guilty," says I. "There's the skipper. My name's Wingate."

"Glad to have the pleasure, Mr. Wingate," he says. "Cap'n Wilson, yours truly. My name's Brown—Peter T. Brown. I read about your falling heir to this estate, Cap'n Wilson, in a New Bedford paper. I happened to be in New Bedford then, representing the John B. Wilkins Unparalleled All Star Cycle, Tom's Club and Ten Nights in a Room's company. It isn't my regular line, the show business, but it produced the necessary 'bain' and every day and the exuberant sleep in after every night, so— But never mind that. Soon as I read the paper I came right down to look at the property. Having rubbered, back I go to Orham."

"Well, when he heaved anchor Jonadab had agreed to put up a thousand, and I was in for five hundred and fifty and contributed two hundred and fifty and experience and nerve. And the Old Home House was off the ways. And by the list of May 'twas open and ready for business too. You never see such a driver as that feller Brown was. He had a new wide piazza built all round the main buildings, painted everything up fine, hired the three best women cooks in Wellmouth—and there's some good cooks on Cape Cod, too—and a half dozen chamber girls and waiters. He had some trouble getting corded beds and old bureaus for the empty rooms, but he got 'em finally. He bought the last bed of Heriah Burgess, up at East Harbison, and had quite a dicker getting it."

"He thought he ought to get $5 for it," says Brown, telling Jonadab and me about it. "Said he hated to part with it because his grandmother died in it. I told him I couldn't see any good reason why I should pay more for a bed just because it had killed his grandmother, so we split up and called it $3. 'Twas too much money, but we had to have it."

And the advertisements! They was sent everywhere. By the middle of April most of our money was gone, but every room in the house was let, and we had applications coming by the pailful.

And the folks that came had money too. They had to have to pay Brown's rates. I always felt like a robber or a Standard Oil director every time I looked at the books. The most of 'em was rich folks—self made men, just like Peter prophesied—and they brought their wives and daughters and slept on cornbunks and eat chowder and said 'twas great and just like old times. And they got the rest we advertised. We didn't cheat 'em on rest.

There was one old chap that we'll call Dillaway—Ebeuzer Dillaway. That was his name. His real one's too well known to tell. He runs the "Dillaway combination store" that are all over the country. In them stores he'll sell you a mowing machine and the grass seed to grow the hay to cut with it. He'll sell you a suit of clothes for $2.25, and for 10 cents more he'll sell you glue enough to stick it together again after you've worn it out in the rain.

He come to the Old Home House with his daughter, and he took to the place right away. Said 'twas for all the world like where he used to live when he was a boy. He liked the grub and he liked the cornbunks and he liked Brown. Brown had a way of stealing a thing and yet paying enough for it to square the law—that hit Ebeuzer where he lived.

His daughter liked Brown, too, and 'twas easy enough to see that Brown liked her. She was a mighty pretty girl, the kind Peter called a "queen," and the active manager took to her like a cat to a fish. They was together more'n half the time, gilling up sailing parties, or playing croquet, or setting up on the "Lover's Nest," which was a kind of slab summer house Brown had rigged up on the bluff where Aunt Sophrony's pigpens used to be in the old days. But all that was afore the count come aboard.

We got our first letter from the count about the 3d of June. The writing was all over the plate like a billed dander, and the English looked like it had been shook up in a bar, but it was signed with a fine fathion, tugged flat name that would give a poll parrot the lockjaw and had the word "count" on the bow of it.

You never see a feller happier than Peter T. Brown.

"Can he have rooms?" says Peter. "Can he? Well, I should rise to elocute. He can have the best there is if you truly has to bunk in the coop with the gladsome Plymouth Rock. That's what! He says he's a count and he'll be advertised as a count from this place to where rolls the Oregon."

And he was too. The papers were full of how Count What's-his-name was hanging out at the Old Home House, and we got more letters from rich old women and pork pickling moneybags than you could shake a stick at. If you want to catch the free and equal mibob of a glorious republic, built up with a little aobility and you'll have your salt wet in no time. We had to rig up rooms in the carriage house, and me and Jonadab slept in the haymow.

The count himself hove in sight on June 15. He was a little, snoked Italian man with a pair of legs that would have been carried away in a gale and a black mustache with waxed ends that you'd think would punch holes in the pillowcase. His talk was like his writing, only worse, but from the time his big trunk with the foreign labels was carried upstairs he was skipper and all hands of the Old Home House.

And the funny part of it was that old man Dillaway was as much gone on him as the rest. For a self made American article he was the worst. Gave on this machine made im- portation that ever you see. I s'pose when you've got more money than you can spend for straight goods you nat'ally go in for buying curiosities; I can't see no other reason.

Anyway, from the minute the count come over the side it was "Goodby, Peter." The foreigner was first off with the old man and general consort for the daughter. It worried Peter; you could see that. He's set in the barn with Jonadab and me, thinking, thinking, and all at once he'd bust out: "Bless that dog's heart! I haven't chummed up with the degenerate aristocracy much in my time, but somewhere or other I've seen that chap before. Now, where—where—where?"

For the first two weeks the count paid his board like a major; then he let it slide. But Peter got bluer and bluer.

One night we was in the setting room—me and Jonadab and the count and Ebeuzer. The "queen" and the rest of the boarders was abed.

The count was spinning a pigeon English yarn of how he'd fought a duel with rapiers. When he'd duelled old Dillaway pounded his knee and sang out:

"That's business! That's the way to fix 'em! No lawsuits, no argument, no delays. Just take 'em out and punch holes in 'em. Did you hear that, Brown?"

"Yes, I heard it," says Peter, kind of absentminded like. "Fighting with razors, wasn't it?"

"What a you say?" the count says, bending forward.

"Mr. Brown was mistaken, that's all," says Dillaway. "He meant rapiers."

"Don't!" busts out Jonadab. "Don't! I can't stand it!"

He was mopping his eyes with his red handkerchief. I was consider'ly shook up myself. A hog would have cried. I know I couldn't help it.

As for Peter T. Brown, he fairly crowed.

"It gets you?" he says. "I know it would. And I'll get a heap of others too. Well, we can't send 'em back to the old home, but we can trot the old home to them, or a mighty good imitation of it. Here it is right here!"

And then that Brown feller took his feet down off the rail, hunched his chair right in front of Jonadab and me and commenced to talk. And how he did talk! Say, he could talk a Hyannis fisherman into a missionary.

He proposed to turn Aunt Sophrony's wind plantation into a hotel for summer boarders.

"Confound it, man," he says, "they're sick of hot and cold water, elevators, bell wires with a nigger on the end, and all that. There's a raft of old coppers that call themselves 'self made men'—meanin' that the Creator wou'd own 'em, and they take the responsibility themselves—that are always wishing they could go somewhere like the shacks where they lived when they were kids. They're always talking about it and wishing they could go to the old home and rest."

"But 'twould cost so like the dickens to furnish it," I says.

"Furnish it?" says he. "Why, that's just it! It won't cost nothing to furnish—nothing to speak of. I went through the house day before yesterday—crawled in the kitchen window. Ob, it's all right! You can count the spoons, and there's eight of those bed-rooms furnished just right—corded bedsteads, painted bureaus with glass knobs, 'God Bless Our Home' and Uncle Jeremiah's coffin plate on the wall, rag mats on the floor and all the rest. All she needs is a little more of the same stuff. That I can buy round here for next to nothing—I used to buy for an auction room—and a little paint and fixings, and there she is. All I want from you folks is a little money. I'll chuck in two hundred and fifty myself, and you two can be proprietors and treasurers if you want to. But active manager and publicity man—that's yours cheerly, Peter Theodorus Brown!" And he slapped his plaid vest.

Well, when he heaved anchor Jonadab had agreed to put up a thousand, and I was in for five hundred and fifty and contributed two hundred and fifty and experience and nerve. And the Old Home House was off the ways. And by the list of May 'twas open and ready for business too. You never see such a driver as that feller Brown was. He had a new wide piazza built all round the main buildings, painted everything up fine, hired the three best women cooks in Wellmouth—and there's some good cooks on Cape Cod, too—and a half dozen chamber girls and waiters. He had some trouble getting corded beds and old bureaus for the empty rooms, but he got 'em finally. He bought the last bed of Heriah Burgess, up at East Harbison, and had quite a dicker getting it."

"He thought he ought to get $5 for it," says Brown, telling Jonadab and me about it. "Said he hated to part with it because his grandmother died in it. I told him I couldn't see any good reason why I should pay more for a bed just because it had killed his grandmother, so we split up and called it $3. 'Twas too much money, but we had to have it."

And the advertisements! They was sent everywhere. By the middle of April most of our money was gone, but every room in the house was let, and we had applications coming by the pailful.

And the folks that came had money too. They had to have to pay Brown's rates. I always felt like a robber or a Standard Oil director every time I looked at the books. The most of 'em was rich folks—self made men, just like Peter prophesied—and they brought their wives and daughters and slept on cornbunks and eat chowder and said 'twas great and just like old times. And they got the rest we advertised. We didn't cheat 'em on rest.

There was one old chap that we'll call Dillaway—Ebeuzer Dillaway. That was his name. His real one's too well known to tell. He runs the "Dillaway combination store" that are all over the country. In them stores he'll sell you a mowing machine and the grass seed to grow the hay to cut with it. He'll sell you a suit of clothes for $2.25, and for 10 cents more he'll sell you glue enough to stick it together again after you've worn it out in the rain.

He come to the Old Home House with his daughter, and he took to the place right away. Said 'twas for all the world like where he used to live when he was a boy. He liked the grub and he liked the cornbunks and he liked Brown. Brown had a way of stealing a thing and yet paying enough for it to square the law—that hit Ebeuzer where he lived.

His daughter liked Brown, too, and 'twas easy enough to see that Brown liked her. She was a mighty pretty girl, the kind Peter called a "queen," and the active manager took to her like a cat to a fish. They was together more'n half the time, gilling up sailing parties, or playing croquet, or setting up on the "Lover's Nest," which was a kind of slab summer house Brown had rigged up on the bluff where Aunt Sophrony's pigpens used to be in the old days. But all that was afore the count come aboard.

We got our first letter from the count about the 3d of June. The writing was all over the plate like a billed dander, and the English looked like it had been shook up in a bar, but it was signed with a fine fathion, tugged flat name that would give a poll parrot the lockjaw and had the word "count" on the bow of it.

You never see a feller happier than Peter T. Brown.

"Can he have rooms?" says Peter. "Can he? Well, I should rise to elocute. He can have the best there is if you truly has to bunk in the coop with the gladsome Plymouth Rock. That's what! He says he's a count and he'll be advertised as a count from this place to where rolls the Oregon."

And he was too. The papers were full of how Count What's-his-name was hanging out at the Old Home House, and we got more letters from rich old women and pork pickling moneybags than you could shake a stick at. If you want to catch the free and equal mibob of a glorious republic, built up with a little aobility and you'll have your salt wet in no time. We had to rig up rooms in the carriage house, and me and Jonadab slept in the haymow.

The count himself hove in sight on June 15. He was a little, snoked Italian man with a pair of legs that would have been carried away in a gale and a black mustache with waxed ends that you'd think would punch holes in the pillowcase. His talk was like his writing, only worse, but from the time his big trunk with the foreign labels was carried upstairs he was skipper and all hands of the Old Home House.

And the funny part of it was that old man Dillaway was as much gone on him as the rest. For a self made American article he was the worst. Gave on this machine made im- portation that ever you see. I s'pose when you've got more money than you can spend for straight goods you nat'ally go in for buying curiosities; I can't see no other reason.

Anyway, from the minute the count come over the side it was "Goodby, Peter." The foreigner was first off with the old man and general consort for the daughter. It worried Peter; you could see that. He's set in the barn with Jonadab and me, thinking, thinking, and all at once he'd bust out: "Bless that dog's heart! I haven't chummed up with the degenerate aristocracy much in my time, but somewhere or other I've seen that chap before. Now, where—where—where?"

For the first two weeks the count paid his board like a major; then he let it slide. But Peter got bluer and bluer.

One night we was in the setting room—me and Jonadab and the count and Ebeuzer. The "queen" and the rest of the boarders was abed.

The count was spinning a pigeon English yarn of how he'd fought a duel with rapiers. When he'd duelled old Dillaway pounded his knee and sang out:

"That's business! That's the way to fix 'em! No lawsuits, no argument, no delays. Just take 'em out and punch holes in 'em. Did you hear that, Brown?"

"Yes, I heard it," says Peter, kind of absentminded like. "Fighting with razors, wasn't it?"

"What a you say?" the count says, bending forward.

"Mr. Brown was mistaken, that's all," says Dillaway. "He meant rapiers."

"But why a razors; why a razors?" says the count.

Now, I was watching Brown's face, and all at once I see it light up like you'd turned a searchlight on it. He settled back in his chair and fetched a long breath as if he was satisfied. Then he grinned and begged pardon and talked a blue streak for the rest of the evening.

Next day he told Jonadab and me that he was going up to Boston that evening on business and wouldn't be back for a day or so.

He was back again three nights afterward, and he come right out to the barn without going right the house. He had another feller with him, a kind of shabby dressed Italian man with curly hair.

"Fellers," he says to me and Jonadab, "this is my friend Mr. Macaroni. He's going to engueer the barber shop for awhile."

Peter done a lot of funny things the next day. One of 'em was to set a feller painting a side of the house by the count's window that didn't need painting at all. And when the feller quit for the night Brown told him to leave the ladder where 'twas.

With his daughter, and he took to the place right away. Said 'twas for all the world like where he used to live when he was a boy. He liked the grub and he liked the cornbunks and he liked Brown. That evening the same crowd was together in the setting room. Peter was as lively as a cricket, talking, talking, all the time. By and by he says:

"Oh, say, I want you to see the new barber. He can shave anything from a note to a porkyplue. Come in here, Chianti!" he says, opening the door and calling out. "I want you."

And in come the new Italian man, smiling and bowing. Well, we laughed at Brown's talk and asked the Italian all kinds of fool questions, and nobody noticed that the count wasn't saying nothing. Pretty soon he gets up and says he guesses he'll go to his room, 'cause he feels sort of sick.

"Now, that's too bad!" says Brown. "Spaghett, you needn't wait any longer."

So the other Italian went out too. And then Peter T. Brown turned loose and talked the way he done when me and Jonadab first met him. He just spread himself.

It was just about quarter past 1 and we was laughing our heads off at one of Brown's jokes when out under the back window there was a jingle and a thump and a klud of growling and wiggling noise.

"What on earth is that?" says Dillaway.

"I shouldn't be surprised," says Peter, cool as a mackerel on ice, "if that was his royal highness the count."

He took up the lamp and we all hurried outdoors and round the corner. And there, sure enough, was the count, sprawling on the ground with his leather satchel alongside of

So the other Italian went out too. And then Peter T. Brown turned loose and talked the way he done when me and Jonadab first met him. He just spread himself.

HARMON BOOM GAINS GROUND

LEADERS ARE TAKING UP THE THIRD CANDIDATE.

The End Is Now for Him—He Is Going After the South, But Clark
Has Ambitions.

PLANS A UNION WITH BRYAN

Washington, Feb. 14.—A notable development in the progress of Governor Harmon's presidential boom is the presence in Washington of ex-Governor Lind, of Minnesota. Mr. Lind is a Swede and a power in political circles of the northwest, where there is a numerous population of Swedes, Norwegians and Danes. Since the death of Governor Johnson he is the idol of the Democrats of that part of the country.

Ex-Governor Lind states that he himself is for Harmon that sentiment in the northwest is decidedly favorable to the Ohio candidate, and that if the Democratic national convention nominates Harmon for president Minnesota will be "a shakable ground." He also makes the rather surprising statement that if Governor Johnson had lived he would have been glad to go on the ticket with Harmon as the candidate for vice-president.

Harmon Making Headway.
The friends of Governor Harmon, who are highly active, and who are operating from the national capital, say that the candidacy of their favorite is making great headway. The accession of former Governor Lind and his strong support in Minnesota and neighboring states is the most significant development of recent weeks in the presidential preliminaries.

It is believed by the Harmon men that Lind will be able to line up a very powerful following for Harmon in the northwest, where he is not otherwise exceptionally equipped with influential backers. With sentiment among the rank and file disposed to be favorable and with Mr. Lind to organize the northwest, a good deal will be expected from that section.

Some of the other recent accessions claimed for Harmon are as follows:

First—He will get a solid delegation from New York state, provided New York does not have a candidate of its own, which is not considered likely.

Second—He will get a solid, or practically solid, delegation from Massachusetts.

Third—Georgia is lining up for Harmon.

Fourth—The Democratic congressmen from Oklahoma have joined the Harmon movement and declare that the delegation from that state will be a Harmon delegation.

Fifth—New Jersey is practically "clinched" for Harmon.

Sixth—The most influential Democrats in Maryland have been induced to put their shoulders to the wheel and push the Harmon political cart.

In Maryland J. Frederick Talbot, known as "Boss" Talbot, who is the greatest organizer Maryland has seen since the days of Arthur Pue Gorman, has joined the Harmon forces and is working to deliver the delegation from that state over to the Huey candidate.

Representatives Howard and Brantley, of Georgia, two of the strongest minority members of the house, are in charge of Harmon's campaign for votes in the "Cracker" state.

Representative William Hughes, of Paterson, N. J., is looking after a Harmon delegation in Grover Cleveland's old state. He anticipates no difficulty in getting a solid Harmon delegation.

Olive Tablets Will Cure Constipation.
Constipation may be called the curse of America. Eighty per cent of all people need laxatives often; also need the liver regulated. Constipation is not only uncomfortable but dangerous. Typhoid fever, appendicitis, neuralgia, headaches and various other ailments are often caused by constipation. Look the facts squarely in the face. Don't you need to help the liver and bowels more than you do—don't you need to take fewer chances? Use a mild laxative, one that is designed to cure constipation. Dr. Edward's Olive Tablets, the one effective substitute for Calomel, acts gently, yet firmly and promptly. You can't estimate their value until you try them.

These little Olive Oil and vegetable tablets are the result of Dr. Edward's fifteen years' hard study among his patients. Must they not be good? Try them and see for yourself. When you need a physic; when you need something to drive away that dull, torpid feeling, take Olive Tablets, they will do it pleasantly and surely. At all druggists in neat 10c and 25c packages. The Olive Tablet Co., Portsmouth, O.

The interest of Harmon goes steadily on. Representative Slayden, of Texas, says he is more than ever convinced that practically every southern state will send a Harmon delegation to the national convention.

After New York.

The Harmon men are putting forth every effort to plant the Harmon banner in New York state, and they have positive assurances that, if New York does not have a candidate, Harmon will get the support of the Empire state political leaders. Mayor Gnyor, of New York, is not developing as a presidential quantity. It was conceded from the start that nothing short of superhuman efficiency would bring him forward into the presidential arena, and as mayor he is doing nothing to make himself a national figure. It is believed that no New Yorker could get the presidential nomination without the support of "Boss" Murphy—at least, the chances would be about 99 to 100 against him. On the other hand, any New Yorker who would come out as Murphy's candidate would be foredoomed to defeat at the polls. The opinion of shrewd politicians, therefore, is that New York will have no candidate for presidential honors.

Champ Clark's Lightning Bolt.

There is a promise just now of an interesting turn in the Democratic presidential preliminaries, which is giving Governor Harmon's friends more concern than any other development. Champ Clark, the Democratic leader of the house, is not ready to rise and make Harmon's nomination unanimous, by any means. He has a very deep and abiding faith that Mr. Clark of Missouri, would make the best candidate the Democrats could nominate.

The indications are that before long a full-fledged movement will be on foot to array William J. Bryan following behind Clark, and thus make him the candidate of what is known as "the Bryan element." Since he has been leader of the house Mr. Clark has worked hand in glove with Mr. Bryan. He has stood on the platform planks written by Mr. Bryan and he has in every way manifested his loyalty for and confidence in the Nebraska commoner. Whenever Mr. Bryan has taken a notion to run for president he has found Mr. Clark his willing henchman. Not so with Harmon. In 1896 Harmon voted for Palmer and Buckner and repudiated the immortal doctrine of "sixteen to one."

If it should come to pass that the Bryan element would line up behind Clark and brand Harmon as the candidate of the "plutocrats" and "corporations," the Missouri might be able to give Harmon a great deal of trouble in the west. It looks now as if Harmon will have the east in any event.

Looking to the South.
Meanwhile he is devoting his personal attentions to the south. He is preparing to make a speaking tour of several of the southern states after the adjournment of the Ohio legislature, which is expected in April.

It is becoming evident that Harmon is to be the candidate, in a peculiar and exclusive sense, of the politicians of the Democratic party. The politicians, sometimes called the "bosses," have a high regard for Governor Harmon's practical qualities. They believe that if he is elected, he not only will know how to take care of his friends, but he will so conduct the presidential office as to keep the Democratic party, and that means the Democratic politicians, in clover for a long time to come.

BAPTIST REVIVAL ENDS WEDNESDAY

THE REV. T. T. MARTIN AND SCHOLFIELD'S LEAVE.

A Fine Attendance Is Enjoyed at
All the Paducah Churches Yesterday.

SOME SPECIAL PROGRAMS

Wednesday night the revival, which has continued for two weeks at the First Baptist church, will close. As an evangelist the Rev. T. T. Martin ranks as one of the best that ever visited in Paducah, and all of his sermons have attracted large audiences. Yesterday three services were held, and at each service the seating capacity was taxed, while in the evening many people stood up during the sermon. This evening by a special request of the congregation, Dr. Martin will speak on "Dancing and Card Playing."

Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Scholfield, who accompany Evangelist Martin, are two of the best singers that have ever assisted in a revival in Paducah. Both have splendid voices and their singing has been a pleasant feature of the services. Mr. Scholfield is choir leader and under his leadership the song service preceding the sermon has been a success. From Paducah they will go to Murray, where a revival will be held.

Laymen's Movement.
Before a large congregation the Rev. G. W. Banks, pastor, preached on his experience at the Laymen's Missionary Movement, at Memphis, at the Fountain Avenue Methodist church yesterday. It proved an interesting and instructive talk.

First Christian.
Out of respect to the memory of the Rev. W. E. Cave, whose funeral was held at the First Presbyterian church yesterday morning, no morning service was held at the First Christian church. Communion was taken at the evening hour, at which time a large congregation was present. The pastor, the Rev. W. A. Fite, preached a strong sermon on the subject of "The Thief on the Cross."

Two trios were rendered by Messrs. Bagby, Mall and Burns, while Mr. Bagby sang "Crossing the Bar." Wednesday evening at the usual prayer service the Rev. Mr. Fite will use for his subject "The Teachings of Jesus on the Holy Spirit." This will be his fourth sermon in the series on "The Holy Spirit."

Broadway Methodist.
The Rev. G. T. Sullivan began a series of Sunday evening sermons last night at the Broadway Methodist church on "The Ethics of Christianity or the New Testament Process of Making Citizens." The foundation sermon last night was based on Luke XIX—Christ's official visit as priest to Jericho, and the conversion of Zaccheus. Dr. Sullivan presented the subject in a forcible way and made a number of strong and telling points. There were two additions to the church last night, one by transfer letter and one by application for membership. There was no service at the morning hour as Dr. Sullivan and his congregation attended the funeral service for Dr. Cave at the First Presbyterian church.

At Grace Church.
At Grace church yesterday morning the pastor being at the funeral of Dr. Cave, the pastor's assistant, the Rev. G. C. McAllister, officiated at the service and preached. The first instruction to the class for confirmation was given in the parish house at 3 o'clock and similar instructions will be given each Sunday until Easter. The Young Men's Bible Study club had an enthusiastic meeting, with good attendance, at 9:30. At the recent state convention of the Kentucky conference of churches and correction, held in Frankfort, the Rev. D. C. Wright, rector of Grace church, was elected member of the executive committee, to represent the western part of the state. The Kentucky conference is the state organization of the national movement.

Tenth Street Christian.
Yesterday morning at the Tenth Street Christian church the pastor, Rev. G. D. Wyatt, preached an interesting and thoughtful sermon on the subject of "The Conditions and Needs of China," telling of our obligations to that country as well as other countries to be Christianized and taught the gospel that was spreading over the world. A large congregation was present and considering the cold weather there was a good attendance at the Sunday school exercises.

At the evening hour the Christian Endeavor society had charge and carried out the following program before a large audience.
